

STUDENTS WATCH CLERKS WORK

School of Commerce Gives Course in Business Methods.

A course in efficiency and business management is now part of the curriculum of the School of Commerce of the University of Missouri. The students in this course visit stores, make a chart of the work of one clerk during an afternoon, and then suggest changes that will make the work of the clerk more efficient.

Other fundamental studies that will prepare the student for the competent handling of any business are also included in this course. The school is equipped with a laboratory for the study of bookkeeping and accounting, and a business library is being accumulated rapidly.

This Robin Needs a Relief Ship, Too.

Here's a Robin Redbreast that made his spring migration too early. Finding the food supply failing, each morning at breakfast-time finds him frantically trying to enter the dining room of a club on Maryland Place. A plate glass window stops him, but a week's efforts would indicate that his hopes of entrance are still high.

CONTESTS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Agricultural Extension Service Plans Competition to Interest Many.

The extension service of the College of Agriculture of the University plans to interest many counties in the state in contests this spring between the school girls and boys. Last year many schools in eight of the fifteen counties which have farm advisers entered into competition in athletic, banking, sewing, cooking, stock judging and grain contests. It is planned to follow the system used by them in the new contests to be organized this spring.

The system was as follows: First the boys and girls of each district in the eight counties had an all-day meeting in which they competed in numerous events. Then all the schools in a township met for a big day for the same purpose. After this was the final contest and only the best were entered. This was the Missouri round-up or county meeting held in five counties last year. The round-ups were under the supervision of the farm adviser and a representative from the University. Representatives from the district and townships met in individual and school competition.

Boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 who are regular attendants of the rural school which they represent are allowed to enter the contests. All material shown in any exhibit in competition must have been made, prepared or gathered by the one in whose name it is entered. The students usually work in teams of three.

Boys and girls are eligible to all contests but it is the aim of the farm advisers to interest them in things bearing on their own particular lines of work.

160 Season Tickets Sold Now—No Track Team.

Columbia High School will have a baseball team. Practice will begin Thursday. A month ago, it was decided that no team could be organized until 150 season tickets were sold and paid for. By the end of last week, 160 season tickets had been sold giving a sound financial basis to the team. No schedule has been arranged. After a few days' preliminary work in the gymnasium, the team will begin practice at the fair grounds.

Prospects for a successful season are good. Five C men from last year's team will be in the game this year. They are Roberts, pitcher; Schooler, catcher; Turner and Vogt, infield, and Hulien, outfield. Garnett and Jarvis, outfielders, of last year's squad are expected to show up well.

Columbia High School will have no track team this year. Coach E. M. Todd has decided that the school can not support both track and baseball.
